people of New Jersey was worse than that which the redocats sought to enforce."

"This," said Dr. Kempshall, "is the house of the people, built by the people, yet we were denied the right to use it by the man whose seat I unworthily occupy. We now occupy the chamber, by the right of eminent domain. But, even though our blood bolls with righteous indignation, let us not forget our solemn responsibility.

"We stand here, humiliated to the lowest degree in the eyes of our sieter States; but, by the help of God, we will show them that the same blood which flowed in the veins of our revolutionary fathers flows in ours."

The Kempshall referred to the remark made by Speaker Flynn about letting women talk, and termed it an insult, and when he spoke about the retort which Mr. Lane made, the large sudience broke forth in a paroxysm of enthusiasm.
